ALL-TERRAIN VEHICLES - The current Nash Stream Forest Management Plan prohibits recreational use of ATVs. A local ATV club has requested that Nash Stream Forest trails be opened to allow them access (SEE MAP).

One reason the Nash Stream Forest was acquired by the State of New Hampshire was to continue traditional public access to the Forest. The previous landowner, Diamond International, had a "no-ATV" policy that may or may not have been strictly enforced. This policy was carried forward as part of the Nash Stream Forest Management Plan.

Recreational use of all-terrain vehicles has grown tremendously in popularity since the Nash Stream Forest Management Plan was prepared. This popularity suggests taking another look at the current prohibition, a look that is provided for in the Plan which states that the Management Plan is subject to change and that monitoring will "...consider changing conditions and trends, and identify and document the need for changes in management practices" (Nash Stream Forest Management Plan, page 134). The growth of ATV use is definitely a changing trend.

PRIVATE RECREATION CAMPS - Under current department policy, private camp lot leases at Nash Stream shall not exceed 50 years in duration, no transfers of ownership will be allowed after 2004, and all leases terminate in 2039. The Nash Stream Camp Owners Association has asked that this policy be changed.

With State purchase of the Nash Stream Forest on October 27, 1988, DRED became owner of 104 camp lease sites that existed at the time of acquisition. Currently, just over 90 leased sites have camps that are owned by private individuals (SEE MAP) under a lease lot program that was maintained by the previous landowner Diamond International. Generally these camps are simple structures primarily functioning as hunting, fishing, and snowmobiling camps and return revenue to the State in the form of an annual lease lot fee. Fee income for last year was $41,830 returned to the State.

NASH STREAM FOREST MANAGEMENT PLAN - Currently the Nash Stream Forest Management Plan can be revised or amended based upon need not a specified schedule, such as every 10 years. The basis for change would be the results of monitoring to "...assess achievements and adherence to guidelines, evaluate the effects of management, consider new information including changing conditions and trends, and identify and document the need to improve management practices" (Nash Stream Forest Management Plan, page 130). The original advisory committee appointed by Governor Gregg anticipated that a Nash Stream Citizen Advisory Committee and staff from other state and federal agencies would assist with monitoring efforts.

Fee income for last year was $41,830 returned to the State.

NASH STREAM FOREST MANAGEMENT PLAN - Currently the Nash Stream Forest Management Plan can be revised or amended based upon need not a specified schedule, such as every 10 years. The basis for change would be the results of monitoring to "...assess achievements and adherence to guidelines, evaluate the effects of management, consider new information including changing conditions and trends, and identify and document the need to improve management practices" (Nash Stream Forest Management Plan, page 130). The original advisory committee appointed by Governor Gregg anticipated that a Nash Stream Citizen Advisory Committee and staff from other state and federal agencies would assist with monitoring efforts.

ALL-TERRAIN VEHICLES - The current Nash Stream Forest Management Plan prohibits recreational use of ATVs. A local ATV club has requested that Nash Stream Forest trails be opened to allow them access (SEE MAP).

One reason the Nash Stream Forest was acquired by the State of New Hampshire was to continue traditional public access to the Forest. The previous landowner, Diamond International, had a "no-ATV" policy that may or may not have been strictly enforced. This policy was carried forward as part of the Nash Stream Forest Management Plan.

Recreational use of all-terrain vehicles has grown tremendously in popularity since the Nash Stream Forest Management Plan was prepared. This popularity suggests taking another look at the current prohibition, a look that is provided for in the Plan which states that the Management Plan is subject to change and that monitoring will "...consider changing conditions and trends, and identify and document the need for changes in management practices" (Nash Stream Forest Management Plan, page 134). The growth of ATV use is definitely a changing trend.

PRIVATE RECREATION CAMPS - Under current department policy, private camp lot leases at Nash Stream shall not exceed 50 years in duration, no transfers of ownership will be allowed after 2004, and all leases terminate in 2039. The Nash Stream Camp Owners Association has asked that this policy be changed.

With State purchase of the Nash Stream Forest on October 27, 1988, DRED became owner of 104 camp lease sites that existed at the time of acquisition. Currently, just over 90 leased sites have camps that are owned by private individuals (SEE MAP) under a lease lot program that was maintained by the previous landowner Diamond International. Generally these camps are simple structures primarily functioning as hunting, fishing, and snowmobiling camps and return revenue to the State in the form of an annual lease lot fee. Fee income for last year was $41,830 returned to the State.

NASH STREAM FOREST MANAGEMENT PLAN - Currently the Nash Stream Forest Management Plan can be revised or amended based upon need not a specified schedule, such as every 10 years. PRIVATE RECREATION CAMPS - Under current department policy, private camp lot leases at Nash Stream shall not exceed 50 years in duration, no transfers of ownership will be allowed after 2004, and all leases terminate in 2039. The Nash Stream Camp Owners Association has asked that this policy be changed.

With State purchase of the Nash Stream Forest on October 27, 1988, DRED became owner of 104 camp lease sites that existed at the time of acquisition. Currently, just over 90 leased sites have camps that are owned by private individuals (SEE MAP) under a lease lot program that was maintained by the previous landowner Diamond International. Generally these camps are simple structures primarily functioning as hunting, fishing, and snowmobiling camps and return revenue to the State in the form of an annual lease lot fee. Fee income for last year was $41,830 returned to the State.

NASH STREAM FOREST MANAGEMENT PLAN - Currently the Nash Stream Forest Management Plan can be revised or amended based upon need not a specified schedule, such as every 10 years. The basis for change would be the results of monitoring to "...assess achievements and adherence to guidelines, evaluate the effects of management, consider new information including changing conditions and trends, and identify and document the need to improve management practices" (Nash Stream Forest Management Plan, page 130). The original advisory committee appointed by Governor Gregg anticipated that a Nash Stream Citizen Advisory Committee and staff from other state and federal agencies would assist with monitoring efforts.
